Bituminous Miners To Defy Coolidge In Coal Strike

OFFICIAL IN PLEDGE TO MINERS

Soft Coal Workers Will Take Vacation If Hard Coal Workers Go Out

By JACK CARBERRY
For International News Service

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 23.—Miners of the soft coal fields of Pennsylvania today pledged their aid to the hard coal miners in the event the latter go out on strike September 1.

James Marks, vice president of the central Pennsylvania bituminous coal district, told John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that President Coolidge was due to be disappointed if he thought the bituminous miners of the Pennsylvania fields would aid in flooding the country with fuel substitutes in the event of a strike in the anthracite fields.

Lewis denied that the bituminous miners would stage a sympathetic strike. The bituminous miners have an ironbound contract, and the United Mine Workers do not violate their contracts, Lewis said.

A member of Lewis' committee here to negotiate a new contract with the anthracite operators, stated, however, that Marks had pledged his word "the miners of the soft coal fields in Pennsylvania would go vacationing in the event of hard coal field strikes."

Gompers' Aide Arrives

Miss R. Lee Guard, secretary of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here this afternoon. She refused to say whether she was here on official business in connection with the threatened coal strike. She telephoned Lewis. Lewis at the time was in conference with the bituminous officials.

Warringer, shown a copy of the United States coal commission's report, said: "I want until 6 o'clock tonight to study what the commission has said. Without even reading it, I am willing to abide by any suggestion or opinion Mr. Hammond cares to make."

Miss Lee Guard declined to comment on the report at this time.

ADVENTIST MEET BEGINS TONIGHT

Canvas City at Florence and Vermont Avenues Ready For 2000 Campers

A canvas city has sprung up this week at the corner of Florence and Vermont avenues, Los Angeles, where over 2000 Seventh Day Adventists will gather for the annual camp meeting of the Southern California conference, including the counties of San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles and that part of Kern county south of the Tehachapi mountains. The opening meeting, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Elder G. W. Reaser of Glendale, who has served so ably as financial director at the previous camp meetings, is again serving in that capacity, and under his direction 500 tents have been erected for living quarters.

In addition there are larger tents for the departmental meetings, for an information office and literature booth, two for first aid, a big one for the mass meetings, and two for foreign meetings.

Use Three Languages

An interesting feature of the camp activities is that there will be meetings conducted in three languages, English, German and Spanish. The big general meetings will, of course, be in English, and services will be conducted in the two other languages in two smaller gathering places.

Glendalians will be particularly

CHINESE RESENT ALIEN R. R. PLAN

British Proposal to Supervise Lines Causes Furore In Peking Circles

PEKING, China, Aug. 23. — The British proposal for foreign supervision of railways is causing a furore in Peking officialdom today.

Public opinion throughout China is roused to a high pitch against the idea of outside management of the national rail lines, and even in legation quarters here dissension is rife over the advisability of going through with the British outline.

Members of the diplomatic corps are greatly divided over the plan for it practically means the partition of Chinese spheres of influence in proportion to the invested foreign capital. This would give Great Britain a major influence in the commercial and political affairs of the great Oriental republic.

Expect Opposition

Strong opposition from the United States, Japan and France is expected.

The rail control plan was formulated here a few days ago by a group of legation officials working under the direction of British interests in China. Coincident with the rail discussion a second plan was considered for the adequate police protection of foreigners in this city.

Foreign supervision has for its object the prevention of such outrages as those resulting from the Shantung train bandit kidnaping incident, and recent outbreaks of anti-foreign sentiment in several Chinese cities and provinces in which missionaries were subjected to indignities.

According to the proposals as then outlined, the present railway police was to be completely reorganized under the direction of two commanders, one foreign and the other Chinese with about twenty other foreign officers of lower rank aiding in the supervision of the native policemen.

On another page of this issue of The Glendale Evening News reference is made to the recent decision of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company not to furnish Glendale residential subscribers with the county directory. Those who feel the need of them are making an appeal for a replacement of the big book.

TYPHOID EPIDEMIC THREATENS OMAHA

$5,000,000 Loss to City Result of Riled Water; Council to Investigate

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 23.—As several cases of typhoid fever sprang up from various parts of the city this morning, and several cases of minor illnesses were reported, a resolution was introduced in the city council demanding an investigation to fix responsibility for the water famine in Omaha.

When more business institutions closed today, due to the muddy condition of the water, it was estimated that 20,000 had been thrown out of work and the loss to the city would reach $5,000,000.

City Health Inspector Pinto issued a statement declaring Omaha was threatened with an epidemic of typhoid and warned the citizens not to drink the water under any conditions. A test of city waters, today showed 43 per cent mud.

The arrest of a water "bootlegger" was made today. Louis Margolin, owner of a tank truck, was charged with "commercializing in water". Police charged that Margolin canvassed residents of the poorer districts and sold water, taken from a city spring, for 5 cents a quart.

Omaha's street flushers were hauling water from Council Bluffs today. The water was transferred to large containers at fire stations throughout the city where hundreds were in line with all sorts of receptacles to get water.

200 Toy Balloons To Be Released as Favors at Dance

TWO hundred toy balloons will be released this evening, in the middle of the Community Service dance at the Tuesday Afternoon club house, according to Mrs. J. R. Case, Jr., of the committee on arrangements.

These favors are only one feature of the evening, the inimitable Hunt sisters being scheduled for a solo dance, while the Standard Oil Orioles will provide the music.

Admittance cards may be secured at the door, the dance starting at 8 o'clock. A record attendance is expected.

THOUSANDS FLEE COLORADO FLOOD

Million Dollar Loss Reported As Apishapa Dam Goes Out Near Fowler

BULLETIN

LA JUNTA, Colo., Aug. 23.—The main crest of the flood waters from Apishapa dam struck this city shortly before noon today, inundating nearly a mile of lowlands near town for more than three feet. More than a thousand persons were forced to flee from their homes. Dynamite is being used to clear a channel under the Cameron bridge near Walsenburg to save that structure

FOWLER, Colo., Aug. 23.—Flood waters from the great Apishapa dam and reservoir which broke late Wednesday, were this morning slowly receding and further damage from the swirling currents was believed past.

Many farm houses were swept from their foundations by the terrible impact of a wall of water thirty feet high and in places nearly a hundred feet wide and carried down into the Arkansas river, miles away.

A heavy loss in livestock was suffered by ranchers in this vicinity and a conservative estimate of the entire damage done in this locality was placed at more than a million dollars.

Messenger Saves Lives

No loss of life had been reported at 6 o'clock this morning. When a crack appeared in the wall of the dam, messengers were sent in all directions warning occupants of ranches in the valley to seek higher ground and when the dam gave way later, it is believed that nearly all, if not all, had reached places of safety.

Every Bone in Body Broken by Man's Fall

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Falling to the street from the twenty-fourth floor of the Municipal building, a man believed to be Samuel Glober, 45, a chauffeur, was dashed to death on the pavement today.

Several passersby narrowly escaped being struck by the body. Every bone in the man's body was fractured.

FRANCE HAS PERILOUS POSITION

W. B. Kirk in England Finds British Are Conciliatory Toward Germany

By W. B. KIRK
(Evening News Correspondent Now on Tour of Europe)
(Special Dispatch from London)

GERMANY today is in a precarious financial condition, but sentiment seems to put France in a more perilous situation. The British are favorable toward conciliation, the power and future of Germany being respected—much more than one would expect to find.

The true wealth of Germany, as related by the author of the "Quarterly Review" article on "Germany's Capacity to Pay", is enlightening and I believe the people of Glendale would be glad to read excerpts on the international financial situation as it appeared in a current issue of the London Daily Mail. In part, it says:

Explains Value of Gold

"The true wealth of nations, as of individuals, consists in real values and nothing else. Money and bits of paper called banknotes, stock exchange securities, and bills of exchange are of value only inasmuch as they represent real wealth.

"Stock exchange securities represent factories and mines, bills of exchange represent commercial goods, and paper money represents gold, while gold is of no value except because of its being convertible into useful goods of every kind.

"Abundance or scarcity of money or of gold is no criterion of the wealth of nations or of individuals. A man worth 10,000,000 pounds, may own 15,000,000 pounds' worth of factories and be hard pressed by his bankers and in desperate need of cash, while a man worth only 1,000 pounds may boastingly display his little capital in the form of ready money, which a multimillionaire often lacks.

Country With Resources

"The real wealth of nations consists in its geographical position and its physical and human resources. Germany may be poor in gold, and very poor if judged by the value of its currency. However, she is immensely wealthy with regard to physical and human resources, and in these she is much richer than France, and she is probably richer than England herself."

"She is the natural mart and exchange of the Continent. Germany is opened by a unique system of deep and gently flowing rivers which run a parallel course and are navigable by ships and barges carrying from 1,000 to 3,000 tons of goods for hundreds of miles inland."

U.S. DRAFTING MANIFESTO ON MEXICO

Recognition of Republic and Obregon's Regime Ready For Announcement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—State department officials have completed the draft of the manifesto announcing American recognition of Mexcio and the document is now ready for promulgation, it was learned this afternoon. Great Britain, France, Belgium and Cuba have been advised through diplomatic channels of the steps taken by the United States to resume political relations with the Obregon government, thus causing some delay in the final act of recognition.

Charles Beecher Warren and John Barton Payne, the American commissioners in the negotiations at Mexico City today discussed their work after making final reports to Secretary of State Hughes. They are confident that President Coolidge's approval of the agreements between Mexico and the United States will not be long delayed and that recognition will take place within a few days.

The president conferred on the Mexican situation shortly before noon today with Secretary Hughes and Mr. Warren, one of the American commissioners. Secretary Hughes was understood to have handed the president the report of the commission recommending the resumption of diplomatic relations.

Los Feliz Tax Suit Demurrer Is Upheld

The rumor that the test case over the collection of delinquent assessments plus legal fees has been lost was denied emphatically this morning by L. W. Chobe of 2301 Sierra avenue, chairman of the Los Feliz Tax Protective association.

Mr. Chobe made a special trip to the county court house this morning to investigate the subject. He found that the rumor is utterly without foundation. The demurrer which was filed by Attorney P. H. Wende of 102-A East Broadway in the case, was sustained and the case was automatically thrown out of court. Mr. Chobe believes that the other cases of which there are over eighty will receive similar treatment.

The rumor that this case had been lost, according to Mr. Chobe probably was promulgated by Steddom & Blanchard, in order to influence interested property owners to accelerate their settlements to the defendant's advantage.

C. Bascom Slemp, Newly Appointed Presidential Secretary

President Coolidge's Coup Shows Clever Politics For 1924 Campaign

By GEORGE M. HEIL
(Staff Correspondent Central Press Association)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Politicians who have recovered from the jolt handed out by President Calvin Coolidge when he named C. Bascom Slemp his presidential secretary now are trying to figure out the whys and wherefores of the strategic move which took official Washington off its feet.

Coolidge has the reputation of being a tight-lipped Yankee, and, as a result, politicians, except possibly a favored few, are doing their own guessing as to the new president's motives in executing his coup.

Close students of the game of politics profess to see four possibilities in the Slemp appointment:

What It Means

First—An indirect avowal of Coolidge's candidacy for the Republican nomination in 1924.

Second—An attempt to win over to the Coolidge banner southern delegates to the convention in 1924.

Third—An alliance with the political forces of former Governor Lowden of Illinois, candidate for the Republican nomination in 1920, or,

Fourth—A declaration of war against the Lowden wing of the Republican party.

Official Washington is unanimous in the opinion that the Slemp appointment is purely a political move.

Slemp is a Republican leader in Virginia, and a former congressman. He is one of the outstanding G. O. P. figures in the South, and is regarded as THE MAN to control southern convention delegates.

This gives color to the possibility that Coolidge now is laying his lines to control the 1924 G O. P. convention before public announcement of his candidacy is made.

Inasmuch as Slemp was one of the chiefs of the nomination campaign organization of Lowden in his 1920 fight, the appointment means either that Coolidge is bidding for the Lowden strength of 1920, or else is attempting to forestall any plans Lowden may have for 1924, and this is tantamount to a declaration of political war.

However, the latter possibility is scouted in Washington, as it is remembered that Lowden was a luncheon guest of Coolidge only a few days prior to the announcement of the Slemp appointment.

Apparently this would indicate that the Republicans are rallying to the Coolidge standard more rapidly than was expected and may serve to prevent the death of President Harding making the G. O. P. nomination race a free-for-all.

Edison Sprains Finger On Visit to Michigan

ISHPEMING, Mich., Aug. 23.—Thomas Edison today denied reports that he was seriously ill, but said he was enjoying his outing in Michigan with Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone. He sprained a finger on his right hand in adjusting the windshield of the party's car, which kept him from shaking hands with the throngs which met the party on arrival, but since then has autographed 300 newspapers for admirers, which, he says, proves that the finger is well again.

PILOTS CUT TIME FROM PACIFIC TO ATLANTIC

Plane Arrives at Mineola, N. Y., 2 Hours, 20 Minutes Ahead of Schedule

MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The eastbound air mail plane piloted by Paul F. Collins, landed at Hazelhurst field at 12:22 p m., Eastern Standard time. The plane left San Francisco yesterday at 8:26 Eastern Standard time, or 5:26 a. m., Coast time. The unofficial flying time from the coast was 27 hours and 56 minutes.

Thus was achieved the experiment of the postal service to bring mail from coast to coast in 28 hours.

Postal authorities announced the official landing at 12:21 p. m. (Eastern Standard time—one minute earlier than the unofficial time.

Far Ahead of Time

This put the actual flying time at 27 hours and 55 minutes, 5 minutes under the 28-hour schedule and 2 hours and 20 minutes ahead of the 30-hour and 15-minute schedule set for this particular flight.

The official time announced that the plane had reached the destination 2 hours and 47 minutes ahead of time. The eastbound plane left San Francisco at 5:26 a. m. Coast time.

At Omaha, which was reached at 10:25 last night, it was 1 hour and 25 minutes ahead of schedule. It left at 10:31 for Chicago, reaching there at 3 a. m. Central time, more than two hours ahead of schedule. The departure from Chicago was delayed until 4:23, which still gave the new pilot over an hour's advantage over his schedule and he had increased it to approximately two hours at Cleveland where a landing was made at 8:27 a. m., just one minute after 24 hours since the first plane hopped off from the West coast.

Make Quick Change

Only two minutes was used at Cleveland and Collins hopped off at 8:29 on the last lap to the Atlantic. He made an unexpected landing at Bellefonte, Pa., at 10:19, transferred the mail to plane 193 and hopped off two minutes later, still well ahead of schedule.

The scheduled time for the flight was fixed at 30 hours and 15 minutes in the shifting schedules that are working down to the 28-hour schedule.

The times for the previous flights were 34 hours and 24 minutes for the first west-bound plane which made an unbroken relay, and 29 hours and 14 minutes for the first eastbound plane,

AUTO PLUNGES INTO RIVER BED

Los Feliz Bridge Is Scene of Early Morning Wreck; Occupants Escape

Narrowly escaping serious injury when their automobile crashed through a side of the Los Feliz bridge early today, Gene Morris and Landon Morris were taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital. After it had been ascertained that they had no broken bones, they returned to the scene of the accident.

Walter Boyle, of Los Angeles, was driving a truck on Acacia avenue near Mariposa street about 4:15 yesterday afternoon. It hit a piece of scrap iron in the street and turned over. He received severe bruises. So did the street.

A three-sided collision occurred yesterday afternoon, on South Brand boulevard, near Park avenue. Dr. J. E. Bishop of San Francisco reports: "I was leaving the curb and had my hand out as I started. An auto driven by J. H. Markland, 1519 South San Fernando road, ran into my car. This drove me into an auto owned by Tyler Gibson of Los Angeles."

Another collision yesterday afternoon occurred at the intersection of Maryland avenue and Broadway. J. William Mackey of 120 East Colorado street was turning off Broadway to go north on Maryland avenue. The right running board and rear right fender on his machine were damaged. The driver of the other car was L. E. Baree of Eagle Rock.

Church Wedding

An impressive midsummer marriage ceremony was that of Miss Velda Adams, daughter of Mrs. Mamie Adams of 306 North Cedar street, and Byron L. Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Baldwin of Austin, Colo., taking place last Wednesday night, August 22, 1923, in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park.

Dr. William J. Johnson of 126 North Isabel street was the officiant, reading the marriage service at 8 o'clock before a company of relatives and friends filling the artistic little church. There were 200 invitations issued for the marriage service at the church.

Two bridal songs were sung before the ceremony by Mrs. Rita King Nelson, accompanied by Mrs. Ada Belle Johnson at the organ. Mrs. Nelson sang "The Hour That Gave Me You" and "Thank God for a Garden." For the entrance of the bridal party Mrs. Johnson played Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

Entering first were two ushers, Louis Odom and Carl Phoenix, and Dr. Johnson, the officiant. They were followed by the bride's mother, Mrs. Mamie Adams.

Next came the dainty little flower girl, Carol Billington, gowned in pink silk and carrying a basket of rose petals.

Just preceding the bride, who entered the church with Mr. Baldwin, came the maid of honor and best man, Miss Vera Hockett and Hurtel Hugley.

Miss Hockett wore an old-fashioned frock of pink taffeta and picture hat, and carried an arm bouquet of pink sweet-peas and maiden-hair fern.

Miss Adams' bridal gown was of white satin-backed Canton crepe, made in panel effect with drapes of rich white silk lace and pearl embroidery. She wore a veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley and maiden-hair fern.

An informal reception followed the ceremony and later the bridal party motored to the bride's home for a wedding supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin have many friends in Glendale and Los Angeles, who are interested in their marriage. Mrs. Baldwin has resided in Glendale two years and during that time has been employed at the Harrower laboratory on East Broadway. Mr. Baldwin is a medical student, having recently graduated from Pacific Union College, near San Francisco. He is to continue his study next year at a Los Angeles hospital.

The young couple will be at home after September 1 at 259 South Verdugo street, Burbank.

MINERS' OFFICIAL GIVES AID PLEDGE

Soft Coal Workers Will Defy Coolidge's Orders in Event of Strike

cepted the challenge thrown down by the operators and miners of the anthracite coal fields. Quietly but forcefully, President Coolidge today put into motion all agencies at his command to assure the country an adequate supply of fuel this winter.

Regardless of what is done by the opposing groups at Atlantic City, he will organize a far-flung organization to serve the needs of the people. The president feels that the time for toleration of the day in the strike situation is rapidly drawing to a close; that with only nine days left before John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, threatens to call the men out of the mines, definite assurances must be given that no serious fuel shortage will result.

Summons Conference

It is this situation which prompted President Coolidge to order F. R. Wadleigh, federal fuel distributor, to issue a call for a meeting of governors of hard coal consuming states in New York next Tuesday. Governors of Delaware, Maryland, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and the commissioners of the District of Columbia, were invited to participate. Wadleigh plans to hold this meeting even though the operators and miners, by some unexpected move, should happen to settle upon a new wage contract today, or tomorrow or before next Tuesday. The basis of the distribution plan already has been determined upon. Wadleigh would have charge of making available for instant delivery the supplies of substitutes, bituminous, coke, and fuel oil, large stocks of all being already on hand. The interstate commerce commission would issue priority orders, so that coal shipments, given preference on railroads, could be expedited to those sections hardest hit by a tie-up.

States to Cooperate

President Coolidge wants the state executives to cooperate fully with federal agencies. That is the purpose of the New York meeting. This is the manner in which the administration has accepted the challenge of operators and miners who have said that the "next move is up to Washington."

Apparently satisfied that further attempts to negotiate with operators and miners only would be met with failure, the coal commission resumed sessions today to go over the final draft of the report to the president of the Atlantic City negotiations. Chairman Hammond indicated that the commission had not been in touch with either of the contending groups and that no further immediate move was contemplated by the government to bring about a settlement of wage differences.

Principals In Disrupted Mine Conference

marred, however, by the broken relay in Wyoming.

The third of the air mail planes in the recently created 28-hour coast to coast postal service, hopped off from here for the Pacific Coast at 10:58 eastern standard time today, piloted by Wesley L. Smith. Cleveland will be the first stop.

This was the third plane to leave in as many days to rush mail across the continent in record time. Five planes in all will be started from here westword bound. Regular air routes will then be planned from the results of their trips.

West Bound Plane Due at 2 o'Clock

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—The west bound aeroplane which left Hazelhurst Field, New York, yesterday morning in the coast to coast twenty-eight-hour postal trial service, arrived at Elko, Nevada at 9:33 o'clock this morning in charge of Pilot Scott, who was relieved there by Pilot Eaton and left at 9:35.

Postal authorities at Crissey field expect the plane to arrive there about 2 p. m. which will be two hours in advance of the regular air mail schedule. Weather conditions are ideal.

The air plane in the transcontinental mail service which left here at 6 a. m. today arrived at Reno at 8:06 a. m., nine minutes ahead of schedule. Pilot Burr Winslow was relieved at Reno by Pilot Moulton and the plane hopped off for Salt Lake City, its next stop, at 8:07, just one minute being lost in changing pilots.

Evening News Employe Proud Father of Twins

There were two little Misses Warner among the new arrivals yesterday afternoon, Wednesday, August 22, 1923, at the Glendale Research hospital, and both claimed Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Warner of 736 East Wilson avenue as their parents.

Of course the two little girls were not at all surprised to find two parents waiting for them, but the parents are said to have been in somewhat of a predicament, with two tiny daughters and only one name. But the emergency was met beautifully, for one twin was quickly named Avonne Gertrude and in a short while the name of Janice May had been selected for the other.

Mr. Warner, who is an employe in the composing room of The Glendale Evening News office, greeted the News family with the broadest of smiles.

Presbyterian Synod Meets Here Next July

The California Synod of the Presbyterian church will meet next July in Glendale.

Announcement to this effect was received this morning by Rev. Louis Tinning of 220 North Belmont street, assistant pastor of the local Presbyterian church.

"The synod of California voted unanimously to meet in the new church at Glendale in July, 1924," stated the telegram which was dispatched by David Black of 350 Kenneth road, "This will bring to our city about 1000 visitors."

This year's synod at Asilomar, which closes tomorrow, has been very interesting, according to a report from Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the local church, who is attending it with his family. Other local persons in attendance, who are accompanied by members of their families, are D. L. Foster of 607 East Elk street; N. P. Harrison of 323 North Maryland avenue; H. L. FRANCE HOLDING PERILOUS PLACE

Germany Able to Pay, Kirk Learns, and Britain Is Conciliatory

Belgium combined, and has at present nearly eight times as much coal as France alone. Further coal discoveries have of late been made in Germany; and in addition to the gigantic quantity of coal of every kind she has huge stores of lignite, a very precious fuel, of which she produces a greater tonnage than of coal.

"Germans possesses more potash than the world can use in thousands of years, and has almost a world monopoly. Her wealth of salts of every kind is inexhaustible. Besides, she produces large quantities of copper, lead, and other minerals.

"Her central position, the cheapness of her freights, her wealth in coal, and the energy of her people have created in Germany most flourishing industries. Before the war Germany dominated the markets of the world with chemicals, electrical goods of every kind, musical instruments, high-class glassware, and many other things. She produced twice as much iron and steel as this country. In cotton, wool, and shipbuilding this country was superior to Germany. In practically all other industries Germany was far superior to England.

Dominated By Industry

"The peace treaty has deprived Germany of valuable territories and of millions of people. However, Germany has retained the bulk of her coal and of her industrial establishments. Those ceded have been replaced by larger and better equipped works. Germany's industrial outfit is far superior to that of England. At present she has 62,000,000 inhabitants, while France has fewer than 40,000,000 and the United Kingdom under 50,000,000. Both in physical and human resources Germany is obviously superior to England and far superior to France.

"The real wealth of Germany is greater than that of this country and far greater than that of France. However, nations and individuals can hide their wealth, or they can temporarily reduce their income if they choose to, and can thus create the appearance of poverty.

"The German workers have reduced their production to about half the pre-war production, but, as consumption has not been curtailed to a similar extent, there is a shortage of goods from which certain classes, particularly the middle class, suffer.

"By abandoning artificial restrictions Germany's production can be doubled and trebled. That doubling and trebling will take place at the moment selected by her rulers. Germany's deliberately entangled finances and ruined currency cannot disguise the fact that the country is richer than England and far richer than France."

French Note Fails To Better Situation

LONDON, Aug. 23.—British hopes for a reparations settlement were based today upon the possibility of an allied conference. Premier Poincaire's willingness to participate in an allied conference and his evident desire to avoid a break-up of the Anglo-French treaty furnished ground for optimism. Premier Stanley Baldwin is expected to confer with Lord Derby, Secretary of State of War and Lord Robert Cecil, Aix Le Baines Saturday. British officials resent the declaration of the French that England is making no sacrifices.

It is feared in official circles that the French note has not advanced the reparations situation. There is more disposition to believe the French document was means mainly for home consumption. Premier Baldwin and Foreign Secretary Lord Curzon will meet Premier Poincaire in France next week.

The reply to the British note is expected from Belgium this evening and officials were hopeful it would be milder in tone than the French communication.

ELKS CIRCUS TO DRAW BIG CROWD

Elastic Program Will Permit Members to Share in Every Activity

Everything is all set and ready for the opening of the indoor circus that is to be staged in the Elks clubhouse on East Colorado street tomorrow and Saturday, August 24 and 25, when Elks from all over southern California are expected to be on hand to take a share in the events that are down on the program that has been prepared as a means of raising funds to send the Elks band to the annual state convention at Eureka from September 19 to 22.

The program is an elastic one, according to W. M. Kimball, secretary of the lodge, who says that the members will be permitted to amuse themselves just as they please and to take a hand in almost anything that is going on. A number of special attractions have been secured for the two days, and many firms have donated valuable prizes which will either be given away or awarded in drawings that are to be held, but in the main, Mr. Kimball says, it will be an informal affair from start to finish, with the real Elks social spirit pervading the clubhouse from cellar to garret.

The proceedings on Saturday night will culminate in the presentation of four boxing bouts in which a number of fast scrappers will be seen in action in the ring in the big auditorium. Harry McCartney and Ray L. Galvin are now booking the boys who will box from among some of the best of the four-round performers in the state, and this part of the program will wind up two days of fast and furious fun and frolic in the handsome East Colorado street lodge clubrooms.

Standard Oil Cuts Gas 2 Cents Gallon

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—A slash of two cents per gallon in the price of gasoline was put into effect today by the Standard Oil company. The reduction is said to be in effect throughout Southern California. A reduction of one cent per gallon in Nevada, Washington, Oregon, Alaska, Hawaii and other parts of California was also announced.

The new slash lowers the price of Standard gasoline to 15 cents per gallon here, the lowest since 1915, it was said. The reduction did not apply to script books, it was claimed, though they will still be accepted, but their sale will be discontinued. Independent service stations throughout the city continued to sell gasoline today at prices ranging from 13 to 15 cents per gallon.

The man we are looking for is looking for us, too; it is just a question of getting his attention. The proposition we have to offer is only to people who are in a position to command big money; who can make a cash down payment of $200,000.00, on a subdivision property comprising some 15,000 acres, lying within ½ mile of the city boundary line of Los Angeles, and within about the same distance from oil wells drilling. The possibilities of this proposition are tremendous—and too numerous to go into detail here—but all the data may be obtained at our office by persons capable of handling and financing. The price per acre on this is so insignificant, as compared with the possibilities of subdividing and reselling, that we do not care to advertise it. You who are interested please call at our office and we will be pleased to go into detail.

Lutheran Church Building Being Moved To Site Where $40,000 Edifice Will Rise

THE First Lutheran church building on the northwest corner of Maryland avenue and Harvard street is now being moved by Contractor L. W. Squier of 626 West Colorado street to 233 South Kenwood street, where it will form a portion of a new $40,000 church plant.

Permit for the new church has been issued already by the municipal building department. Excavation is under way and will be completed this week. The general contract for the structure is expected to be awarded Friday night at a special meeting of the building committee. This is composed of Dr. H. C. Funk, N. W. Hjorth of 3645 Boyce street, William Anderson of 107 South Isabel street, H. A. Stolper of Burbank, H. J. Coleman of 505 Alexander street and P. M. Telander of 609 North Jackson street. It is hoped to have the new house of worship completed before Easter.

Dr. H. C. Funk and family intend to remain in their present home at 111 East Harvard street until the new parsonage is ready for their occupancy.

No services will be held by this church Sunday. Arrangements are being made for subsequent services prior to the completion of the new church.

Presbyterian Church Plastering Begins

Plastering was commenced this morning upon the auditorium of the new Presbyterian church.

William Keen of 1446 Thompson street, who holds this contract, expects his crew of eight men to finish this job within a month. The most difficult portion of it is the ceiling, lathing of which was completed yesterday afternoon. Plastering over the brick side walls is expected to be an easy matter.

The auditorium of this church will be the largest room in Glendale. It is seventy-four feet across at its widest and seventy-eight feet in depth from the rear wall to the pulpit.

The Sunday school department, which occupies the western section of the building, is now nearing completion. Robert Bird, superintendent of construction for Architect Robert H. Orr, expects to turn it over to the board of trustees before the first of October. The last piece of flooring was laid yesterday afternoon.

The principal thing that remains to be done now is the installation of the doors and the laying of the stairs.

High School Board To Buy Equipment

Equipment for the new Glendale High school will be ordered to a large extent at the meeting scheduled for September 13 for the board of trustees.

Principal George U. Moyse stated yesterday the specifications for much of the needed equipment would be prepared before the first of the month and will be on file in the office of the business agent of the high school, Irving H. Oliver. He added that specifications for the lighting fixtures are on file in the offices of Architect John C. Austin and Architect George M. Lindsey in Los Angeles.

The advertisement calling for general bids contained a provision that further advertisement for bids to supply the plant with equipment is unnecessary. Specifications are to be available for all interested persons and bids receivable at regular meetings.

ROTARIANS PLUS FAMILIES PICNIC

Swimming, Diving, Wading, Also Ball Game, Races And 'Eats' Enjoyed

Mrs. Bernice Stone was acclaimed the diving Venus at the Rotary club picnic at Brookside park, Pasadena, yesterday afternoon and night; Rene Olin proved himself the star high diver; Ed Nisle won the wading contest; Richardson D. White took first in the fifty-yard costume dash; Owen C. Emery won the bicycle tire race; J. I. Wernette won the prize for the most beatific shirt.

And, oh! that baseball game between the "Fats" and the "Slims"! While the hard-working Rotarians struggled through innumerable twilight innings, their proud Rotary Anns cheered them on from the bleachers, between laughs. The final score was reported by Ed Nisle as 13 to 6 in favor of the Fats; but the Slims indignantly deny this, stoutly averring the final tally was 8 to 4 in their favor.

How They Lined Up

The Slims got the prize, anyway—a Community cash register—so they must be right. On their team were Fay Stone, Rene Olin, J. A. Newton, Francis J. W. Henry, George B. Karr, Owen C. Emery, Howard Bentley and Russell Newton, the latter two of the younger generation; while the losers' outfit comprised J. I. Wernette, Jim Rhoades, C. C. Cooper, George H. Bentley, Ed Nisle and Ruie Downing.

During the progress of the aquatic sports, Ed Nisle had the time of his life, wading right through the deepest part of the pool—until J. I. Wernette got in, when the water rose so suddenly that Ed might have foundered, but for the quick arrival of a rescue tug in answer to his radio.

Yes, They Have "Eats"

And then the eats! The chicken, fried that golden brown—the home-made cake, chocolate, angel food, marble!—the inimitable coffee of C. E. Jones!—and, best of all, the personal service of George B. Karr, president of the Glendale2 Rotary club, who made a matchless host.

After dinner, the jolly picnickers adjourned to the far tennis court and held forth hilariously, running off many of their funniest events. It was here that Richardson D. White raced and won his celebrated fifty-yard costume dance. He thinks the costume he wore belonged to a female sheik, but isn't quite sure, as he got it on backward. At any event, he won a Diogenes lantern—and went forth looking for an honest man.

Winners of Events

Howard Bentley won first and Jack Emery second in the boys' race; Helen Bentley won first and Edith Kelty second in the girls'

NEW PHONE BOOK IDEA GOOD, BUT--

Subscribers Here Are Loath To Part With Old L. A. County Directories

Fred Deal, genial manager of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company office in Glendale, has been noticeable for his absence this week in attending to the outside details of the corporation's business away from his office.

Indeed, were he to stay close to his desk he would be on the entertainment committee soothing some several thousand subscribers who have "lost their big books," i. e., the residential phone users being provided with a local directory, but not one for Los Angeles county.

Dstributors of the new directories find householders are loath to give up the old books which, incidentally, contain 14,000 "wrong numbers" now, not to mention additional listings and changed addresses.

One boy delivering the directories declared, "Some people must think I'm president and general manager of the phone company the way they talk."

TELLS PLANS OF REALTY CARAVAN

Glendale Board Is Urged to Send Big Delegation to Convention

Participation on a basis as nearly as possible 100 per cent in the approaching annual convention of the California Real Estate Association by the members of the Glendale Realty Board was urged at the weekly luncheon of the board at the Egyptian Village Cafe yesterday, when Glenn D. Willaman, secretary of the state association and editor of California Real Estate, the official organ of the association, addressed the board.

The caravan of realtors, representing all of the boards in Southern California, will start north on October 9, after assembling early in the morning at San Fernando in order to make a start free from the traffic congestion that hampered last year's caravan in its start from Los Angeles.

Want Big Delegation

Southern California, Mr. Willaman declared, must be well represented in the caravan and at the convention, as San Francisco, Oakland and other Bay City boards are planning to turn out in full strength and to make a big noise at the convention, and the southern part of the state must, he declared, offset the enthusiasm of their northern rivals by an equal display of numbers and of pep.

The first stop of the caravan will be made at Bakersfield for luncheon; the first night out will be passed at Fresno; luncheon at Stockton the next day; and Sacramento will be reached the evening of the second day.

A number of the leading real estate men of the country have been secured as speakers at the convention, among them being President Lewis F. Eppich of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Mr. Willaman also gave a resume of the recently enacted real estate law, which requires licensed brokers to display a sign stating that fact in a prominent position in their places of business.

A. M. Yale, vice-president of the Glendale Realty Board, presided at the meeting in the absence of President C. D. Thom.

Oratorical Contest

The appointment of an educational committee was authorized to investigate the course in real estate training that has been prepared by the National Real Estate Association working with the International Y. M. C. A. and the University of Wisconsin, and the same committee will also have charge of the contest that is to be held shortly to select contestants for the Home Town Talks that are to be a feature of the state convention. The best speakers of the local board will be given an opportunity to win the coveted honor of representing Glendale at the convention.

Missouri Folk to Picnic Next Sunday

Invitation is extended to all residents and former residents of the "Show Me" state to come and enjoy a fine outing and program in the afternoon.

Dr. Henry Harrower Presents Painting To Tuesday Club At Meeting Of Exchangeites

OFFICIAL presentation of a painting brought back from Europe by Dr. H. R. Harrower was made to the Tuesday Afternoon Club yesterday noon, through its officers and directors, who were special guests of the Glendale Exchange Club at the weekly luncheon held in the beautiful new Tuesday Afternoon club house on North Central avenue.

Dr. Harrower, on behalf of the Exchange Club, made the presentation address, telling how he had bought the picture at a public auction near Cheltenham, England, and how he had shipped the picture home with the idea in mind that it might some day hang from a wall of the new Tuesday Afternoon Club, of which he said he had heard but naturally had not seen, since it was erected in his absence.

Mrs. Campbell Replies

Mrs. Dan Campbell, president of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, responded, accepting the picture most graciously and telling those present that it was but a further evidence of Dr. Harrower's friendly attitude toward the club, of which his wife, who was present, is a member.

The painting, which was on view during the luncheon, is an unsigned piece of work, of good quality, depicting an Italian girl in thoughtful pose. The colors are warm and effectively applied. The canvas has the appearance of being between fifty and seventy-five years old.

In Mrs. Campbell's remarks the subject of tree protection was brought up. William B. Kelly talked further on the subject, moving that D. Ripley Jackson, president of the Glendale Exchange Club, who presided over the meeting, appoint a committee to look into the matter of tree preservation and planting.

Wants 10,000 Trees

Dr. Harrower seconded the motion, suggesting that he would like to see 10,000 trees planted in Glendale.

The motion was put to vote and unanimously carried, whereupon the chair appointed the following committee: Fred E. Hoyt, William B. Kelly and Dr. H. R. Harrower.

President Jackson then spoke of the movement by Exchange clubs all over America to erect a fitting monument to Exchangeite Warren G. Harding, late president of the United States, at Marion, Ohio. On motion, duly made and seconded, it was unanimously voted to support the movement 100 per cent, and every local member will contribute $3 to the memorial.

Mrs. Orrie E. Ghrist, introduced by President Jackson as one of the most capable pianists in the west, rendered delightfully two popular MacDowell numbers, "Polanaise" and "Shadow Dance."

Plan Dinner Dance

It was announced by F. C. Butler, secretary, that the Glendale Exchange Club will hold a "Ladies' Night" at the Egyptian Village cafe, 133 North Brand boulevard, Thursday, September 6, when the light fantastic toe will be tripped and other mild divertisements enjoyed.

The officers and directors of the Tuesday Afternoon Club present at the meeting were: Mrs. Dan Campbell, president; Mrs. M. E. Plasterer, treasurer; Mrs. Frank Ayars, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. A. Barton; Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward; Mrs. William

Plot to Kidnap News Staff Man Hatched at Club

A KIDNAPPING committee has been appointed by President D. Ripley Jackson of the Glendale Exchange Club, because of the flagrant refusal of a certain newlywed to appear with his bride at yesterday's luncheon.

The members of the committee are all strong-arm men and have been given unprecedented powers. In fact, they have been given carte blanche and told to bring this elusive pair to next Wednesday's luncheon at all costs.

The committee comprises F. C. Butler, W. C. Waring and R. B. Johnson. The victim is Arthur Sherborne, Glendale Evening News staff man and member of the Exchange Club.

TODAY—French Cuisine Retrogrades; Wine Industry Prospers. TOMORROW—Drought Threatens China; Prayers to the Rain God, by Edna Lee Booker, Shanghai Correspondent.

By HARRY R. FLORY
For International News Service

PARIS, Aug. 23.—France's "cuisine" is dying for want of chefs and chefs' assistants.

The rate of pay is so low that French chefs are constantly being persuaded by dollar salaries to go to the United States. Working conditions are such that young men of "taste" no longer enter the business.

Already the gourmands are lamenting the disappearance of quality food and the invasion of hitherto tabooed canning factory products into the French kitchens.

So serious is the labor shortage in the cooking business that it was the chief subject discussed at the recent hotel proprietors' Congress held at Blois.

"The trouble is the average French chef is receiving approximately the same salary today he received forty years ago," explains M. Sale, secretary general of the "Cooks' Syndicate," of Paris. "Meanwhile he daily sees the food he prepares at almost the same expense as ten years ago selling in the dining-room at four or five times previous prices."

Chefs in leading Paris restaurants are paid $45 to $55 a month, their assistants one-third to one-half as much. They work usually in sub-basements so hot and disagreeable their health is permanently impaired. Working hours are from nine to fourteen per day, usually divided into two shifts.

The shortage is being felt not only in Paris but in the provinces. Everywhere there is lamentation, for good food is as necessary to the Frenchman as sidearm lunchrooms are to Americans.

On the contrary, the wine industry is showing too much prosperity. More good wine is being produced than can be comfortably consumed.

French wine-drinking habits are very regular. The daily wine consumption of an average Frenchman never varies more than a few swallows. He can estimate on January 1 how much "wet" stock he will require for the year and drink from the last bottle on December 31.

Consequently, although recent wine seasons have been the best ever and the storage caves are overflowing, the consumption is not holding its own with production.

American prohibition cut off a big export outlet; the Austrians are too poor to drink French wines; the Germans condemn everything French, and the English are faithful to their whiskey soda and tea.

The government considered shutting the trade door to foreign wines to encourage patriotic drinking. Spain threatened to boycott French wines by way of reprisal. Officials investigated and learned that for every bottle of port or Madeira coming from Spain, France sent into Spain champagne, Bordeaux and Burgundy by the case and that the figures were approximately the same between France and all other wine-producing countries.

So the wine remains and accumulates, awaiting patriotism-inspired drinking or possible "bootleg" entry into the United States.

The campaign for patriotic drinking has already started, with newspaper articles refuting contentions, evidently emanating from America, that wine drinking leads to alcoholism.

Billy Whicker

You must be anxious to know if Billy got ashore all right after dumping the boys and their cart in the water.

Just then something white swimming in the river caught Billy's eye, which interested him much more than anything else he knew, for it was Nannie, his obedient and loving wife, who had followed his instructions to the letter to keep him in sight and follow him wherever he went, as he had told her to do. Billy had forgotten her for the minute in his fast run when he was trying to think what next to do to get even with the Hooligan gang.

As before, Nannie swam the river in safety and soon she and Billy were scampering away to hide themselves before any one of the boys had had time to swim to shore. They only looked back once and then they saw the six of them, shaking themselves as one by one they dragged themselves up on the bank out of the water.

And that was the last time Billy and Nannie ever saw the Hooligan gang.

Now to find a train to take us to Chicago, where we must board another to carry us still further along on our journey to the Pacific coast," said Billy.

"But, Billy, how are you going to tell which will be the right train?" argued Nannie. "We might get on one that would take us away down south."

"Never fear, my dear! I shall read the sign on the car telling where it is going before I get on."

I am not going to tell you how they reached Chicago, and were carried to the stockyards, where they came near being slaughtered. Or of their escape and luck in boarding the right train, but, alas! only to be put off. Nor how they followed the track away out of town until they came to the next station where they sneaked on the next day's train and were carried out to Kansas City over the Santa Fe road before they were discovered. Here they were shut up in a pen with some other goats, but they were glad of that as it gave them a chance to get something to eat and to drink.

Little by little, on trains and off, walking and then resting for days at a time in the small towns, or shut up in some freight car for hours and hours, with nothing to eat or drink while the train waited on a sidetrack for a through passenger to pass, Billy and Nannie still made progress west.

(Tomorrow their journey ends.)

Poems That Live

TO A YOUNG LADY

Sweet stream, that winds through yonder glade,
Apt emblem of a virtuous maid—
Silent and chaste she steals along,
Far from the world's gay, busy throng;
With gentle yet prevailing force,
Intent upon her destined course;
Graceful and useful all she does,
Blessing and blest where'er she goes;
Pure-bosom'd as that watery glass,
And heaven reflected in her face.
—William Cowper.

"Tommy," said a young woman visitor at his home, "why not come to our Sabbath school? Several of your little friends have joined us lately."

Tommy hesitated a moment. Then suddenly: "Does a red-headed kid by the name of Jimmy Brown go to your school?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the new teacher.

"Well, then," replied Tommy, with an air of interest, "I'll be there next Sunday, you bet. I've been laying for that kid for three weeks, and never knew where to find him."—Judge.

The lady who ran off with nineteen children in one automobile in the hottest weather of the summer must be a glutton for punishment.

GETTING WOMEN OUT TO VOTE

Feminine Political Leaders Making Campaigns

Mrs. Elliott Cheatham with her exhibit

Women political leaders are making campaigns throughout the country to educate the feminine voters and "get out the vote" by arousing interest in things political. Mrs. Elliott Cheatham, Atlanta, Ga., director of nine southern states and the District of Columbia for the League of Women Voters, will tour county fairs with an exhibit.

With the Women of Today

Miss Henrietta Szold is the leader of the Zionist women in America, who recently held a conference in Baltimore. The Zionist women's organization is the auxiliary of the Zionist movement which aims to effect the restoration of Palestine as the Jewish home-land.

Miss Henrietta Szold

Miss Szold was born and educated in Baltimore and has been a teacher but has devoted her life largely to editorial work. She is the translator of "Jewish Ethics," by Lazarus "Legends of the Jews" by Ginzberg, "Hebrew Rennaissance," by N. Slouschz, and other works. From 1904 to 1908 she was the editor of the American Jewish Year Book of the Jewish Publication Society.

Besides being the chairman of Women's organization she is secretary for education of the Zionist Organization of America.

NOTES OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

Women are wearing more hair than ever before. Sounds odd, doesn't it, with all the bobbing still going on, although fashion writers insist that bobbed hair is passe. Statistics show that in 1921 the value of hair goods manufactured in this country amounted to almost $11,000,000 as compared with $3,335,000 in 1914.

According to the organ of the woman's party, Equal Rights, out of the eleven republics established since 1919, a majority, seven, have written equal rights clauses into their constitutions. These countries are: Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Prussia, Austria, Danzig, Esthonia and Lithunia.

A TIP TO THE PRESIDENT

Without a dissenting vote, delegates to the convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs at Atlanta, adopted a resolution endorsing the principle of the world court.

A significant action was taken before the vote. The text of the resolution was changed, and a specific endorsement of President Harding's proposal was stricken out. As adopted, it endorses "all practical measures tending to the end" that all wars should cease and international friction give way to understanding.

Nurses' School Fifty Years Old

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the School of Nurses was celebrated recently at Carnegie Hall, New York city, under the auspices of the Bellevue hospital. This was the first hospital in this country to start a school for nurses fifty years ago, but since that time many other hospitals have followed suit. The establishment of these schools has caused a big drop in the death rate, which was due to incompetent nursing.

Kathie, who's fluffy and blond and demure, was having a little trouble with her eyes, says the New York Sun and Globe. It chanced that the specialist to whom she went was young and handsome. Kathie went every day for a week. Then the young man began calling at her home.

One evening dad finally detached himself from his Wild West stories long enough to make an inquiry.

"Well, well, Kathie, what does the doctor say about your eyes?"

"Oh, he says they are wonderful."

The new arrival in Suburbia sent over to borrow an egg beater, a double boiler and a sauce pan. These were cheerfully furnished.

An hour later she asked for six soup spoons and a kettle. These were less cheerfully furnished.

When a request came for a fish platter and a coffee percolator the old settler spoke up.

"Just tell your mother to send back my utensils," she directed, "and I'll loan her a six-course dinner."—Boston Herald.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SAMMIE'S TRICK

Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy, hopped across the lots from his house to the kennel where Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow lived.

"Come on, Jackie and Peetie!" whispered Sammie. "I know a fine trick to play on Uncle Wiggily!"

"What sort of a trick?" barked Peetie.

"Oh, a dandy trick!" laughed Sammie. "Over at our house is an old rug. It looks like a tiger skin. I'll dress in the tiger skin rug and we'll hide behind the bushes. Then, when Uncle Wiggily comes along, I'll jump out at him and yell 'Boo!' He'll be so s'prised that he'll jump up in the air. Come on, let's play that trick on Uncle Wiggily!"

But Jackie and Peetie wagged their tails, and let their red tongues loll out of their mouths, for it was a hot day, and Jackie said:

"No, we don't want to play any trick like that on Uncle Wiggily."

"Uncle Wiggily was good to us," barked Peetie. "He gave us ice cream, that's what he did."

"Oh, well," spoke Sammie, digging his paw down in the dirt. "This trick won't hurt him. Come on—it'll be lots of fun!"

But Jackie and Peetie wouldn't play the trick on the bunny gentleman, so Sammie said he would do it all alone by himself. The little rabbit boy hopped home and took the old make-believe tiger skin rug out of the parlor.

"With this on I'll look just like a jungle beast," chuckled Sammie, and he laughed to himself as he thought of the trick he was going to play on Uncle Wiggily.

So Sammie went off to hide behind the bush and wait for the rabbit gentleman to hop along.

It was just about this time that Nurse Jane said to Uncle Wiggily:

"Will you please go to the store for me and get the jug filled with molasses?"

"I shall do that with pleasure," answered Mr. Longears politely "Are you going to bake beans?"

"I am going to bake a molasses cake," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Ah, that is better!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, and his pink nose twinkled twice as fast.

Over the fields and through the woods hopped the bunny rabbit gentleman, to get the jug filled with the sweet, sticky molasses. And he was hopping home with it, thinking how good the cake would taste after Nurse Jane had baked it, when, all of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily passed a bush, he saw it moving.

"Hum! That is very strange!" whispered the bunny uncle. "There is no wind to make that bush move yet I plainly saw it jiggle. I wonder what it means?"

He stood there with the molasses jug in his paw, waiting for what was to happen next. It happened very soon.

From the bush a striped paw was thrust, and then a voice cried:

"Boo!"

"My goodness! What's that? Who is there?" asked the bunny uncle.

"I'm here! The big striped tiger cat is here and he's going to nibble your ears!" said a voice from the bush. Then another striped paw thrust out.

"Oh, this is terrible!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I'm so frightened!"

And he shivered and shook so that he jiggled the cork out of the molasses jug, and just then Sammie, in the make-believe tiger skin rug, leaped out and Uncle Wiggily shook molasses all over the rabbit boy. Oh, such a lot of molasses was shaken on Sammie! It stuck him all up. It stuck him fast inside the make-believe tiger skin rug so he couldn't get out. It stuck his paws fast to his ears!

"Oh, help me out! Help me out! Help me out of this tiger skin!" cried Sammie, all stuck up with molasses.

Uncle Wiggily stopped shivering and shaking and spattering molasses.

"Why Sammie Littletail!" exclaimed the rabbit. "Was that you pretending to be a tiger cat? What for?

"Boo!"

"Oh, just to play a trick on you Uncle Wiggily!" cried Sammie, as the bunny gentleman got water from a nearby spring and washed the molasses from the little rabbit boy. "Just to play a trick on you."

"Hum!" said the bunny as he corked up the molasses jug. "That trick wasn't very much on me! Most of it was on you, Sammie!"

And so it was—wasn't it? But if the fountain pen doesn't drink up all the ink so there is none left for the pencil to swim in, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Bunty's blocks.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—I am a girl of seventeen and would like to know whether it is proper for a girl to go to dances and theatres with fellows. What time should a girl of that age stay out and how many nights should she go out during the week?

ROSE BUD.

It is all right for a girl of seventeen to go to school and neighborhood parties, but it is not considered proper for her to attend theatres and public dances with young men. Of course, I realize that most girls of that age have a great deal of freedom. Personally, I do not believe a theatre once a week would be harmful. Ten o'clock is late enough to be out, however, and a girl of seventeen should not be allowed to spend more than two or three nights a week with boys.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in the teens and I am in love with a fellow very much, but we are angry at each other now. I would like to go with him again. Please advise me what to do to go with him again without his knowing that I want to go with him.

He asked me to marry him and he told me he liked me and all that, but I never can believe it. He took me to his home and he felt very proud of me. We got angry because he was to come for me one afternoon, but he could not come and now he thinks that I got angry.

GOOD-LOOKING.

The only thing I can advise you to do is to speak to the boy when you meet and let him know by that that you are not angry. If he wants to come back he will do so.

* * *

K. C. E.: The back of your post-card was badly damaged in the mail and I cannot read what is wrong with your cheeks. Perhaps you will write again, so that I can advise you.

* * *

Mrs. V. H.: I have not the little girl's address.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of legal age, old enough to get married. I am going with a fellow. We have gone together "steady" for ten months, but I have known him longer. He is very nice and always asks me to marry him. He is just my kind, but I have another fellow on my mind and he always writes to me. He has money. The fellow I am going out with is just a working man, but gets good pay. He comes from my town, but the other fellow lives in another city.

Please tell me what you would do if you were in my place.

CHERRY PIE.

Marry the young man you love more. It never pays to bank on money, because it does not buy happiness. Of course, I realize that money helps a lot to make a marriage happy, but it is not enough without love. Besides you cannot tell what the future may bring. Often a young man who is a hard worker rises far above another young man who has a much more advantageous start. Let love govern your decision.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am fourteen years old. I have blue eyes, brown hair, and am considered very pretty. I am popular in this town and have many girl and boy friends.

There is a boy fourteen years' old who lives across the street from me. He doesn't speak to me and I don't know why. I would like very much to have his friendship. Will you please tell me how I can win his friendship back again?

WAITING.

Your sense of pride should make you overlook the fact that the boy does not speak. If he ignores you to the extent that you feel no encouragement to speak first, ignore him, too.

Petty meanness and the grudges of today are forerunners of war tomorrow.

Dinner Stories

Two hunters in the North Carolina woods had chased a wildcat to a clearing, says Everybody's, and were terrified to see the beast jump through the window of a cabin from which the sound of a woman's voice had just been heard. On the porch, rocking comfortably and apparently unperturbed, sat Friend Husband.

"For heaven's sake, is your wife in there?" cried one of the horrified hunters.

"Yeah."

"Good Lord, man, get busy! A wildcat just jumped in the window."

"Yeah? Well, let him git out the best way he can. I got no use for the pesky critters, and danged if I'm going to help him."

A parliamentary candidate in a rural district made the following remark in the course of his address: "There is no question in the world which I cannot answer with just 'Yes' or 'No'."

An old farm laborer jumped up and said: "Please, maister, might I ask 'e a question?"

"Certainly, my good fellow," said the candidate.

"Well,then, maister," said the old farm hand, "what's the time?"

Touching the Heights

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

The tall and the short man, agged of garb, walked the correct reets of the suburban village of wight-on-the-Heights. In front f a structure built in many woods nd painted in as many shades of ink, green and blue, the tall man alted the other.

"Did yer ever try bein' a hod enius?"

"Not me. I never carried a hod n me life. In fact, I considers he question an insult."

The tall man expressed his dis-ust.

"When I says hod genius, I heans queer one. Don't be so loomin' smart but take a look at hat sign, if yer can read. I am erfecting a plan. C'mon."

"Ye Arte Guild of Dwight-on-he-Heights"—

"I can read, all right, but if hat is spelled right I'm a hod-arrier like what you said, and if ou have any idears about Artie Guilds I'll bet they is lulus."

Over coffee and doughnuts the all man elaborated. "When a rowd of high-brows calls them-elves Ye Something or Other they s my meat. I am an artist, meb-e you are. Nobody knows how nuch of an artist he is until some-body what oughta know better ells him. How much money have ve got?"

There was enough to buy sev-ral large squares of drawing pa-per, pencils and charcoal. The wo retired to the bank of a tream and for two days the tall man, his tongue in his cheek, la-bored to surprising effect. Some-imes he traced figures from ad-vertisements in a newspaper, fig-ures which he altered by enlarg-ng the hands and feet and by sub-stituting a heavy and careless out-line. Features he ignored.

"The secret of troo art," the tall man said, "is to make all your figgers look like they was weight-ed down with misery or half blot-ted out with sin. When in doubt, smudge. And allus give 'em big 'ands."

The ladies of Ye Arte Guild were met to examine a loan col-lection of prints and to hear a lecture by one of their number when a tall man with a square package under his arm knocked timidly on the door. The tall man was looking as meek and as soul-ful as he could.

"Will you pardon me, please? I have heard of this Guild and of the pictures you have here. May I just step in for a moment?"

The ragged man in the presence of the well-dressed women did not seem to realize he was out of place. Indeed, he had eyes for nothing but the pictures. Rapt and silent he gazed and then, from the depths of his frame, came a regretful, envious sigh.

"There are some to whom the sight of good pictures is as neces-sary as food or drink," he said, smiling gently. "Me, I have had no education and no opportunity except that of travel. I have been in the South Seas where the natives express their artistic souls in tattoo. I have sat under gray wharves and seen tugboats go by like great fat ducks, and when the night came I have lost my senses in the squirmings of lights re-flected in the waters." He be-came apologetic.

"Excuse a por artist. Thank you."

Here was a character. The square package! They must not let this man go.

"And you are an artist?" It was the woman who had lectured. "Won't you let us see what you have done?"

"Remember, I have no training. I only draws because something seems to make me." They were all eagerness now. The drawings of the tall stranger were placed against the wall while the group stepped back to appraise. In the moment of silence each awaited the cue from the one who had lectured.

"So bold!" she said. "Abso-lutely untrammeled!"

"Free," said another, "as the wide spaces!"

"Art without fetters," a thin voice cut in, "the true expression of one who has felt deeply."

The tall man bowed his head and his shoulders shook. "If yer knew how much a word of appre-ciation means! I will leave these here. I will go my way." He rubbed his sleeve across his eyes and edged to the door.

They halted him, held a hurried consultation, and with some timid-ity voiced a request.

"It is not what they are worth. Genuine art is priceless, but we would feel better if you would take this, if you would give us the honor of purchasing your work for our gallery." Put that way, who could refuse. The tall man straightened his shoulders and there was a look of pride in his eyes.

"I am honored," he said, and he departed walking as a victor from the field.

"Now yer sees," he said to the short man a little later, "the ad-vantage of knowing what is what in the high-brow line. Bein' a hod character allus pays divvy-dends."

FAVORED BY THE DISCRIMINATING

There is no surer signal of smartness than the plaited panel, and it is employed with unusual cleverness in the development of the frock pictured to the left. Material, satin crepe; color, powder blue. The closing is at the shoulders, with the oval neck finished with applied bands. The plaited panels are inserted at the back and front, but stitched to the dress at the sides. Medium size requires 7⅜ yards 36-inch material.

The materials that naturally suggest themselves for the second model are gingham, linen, mercerized poplin and chambray for every-day wear, and taffeta, satin crepe and pongee for dress wear. The dress is slashed and closed at the center-back, which is extended over the shoulders and joined to a straight band. A casing stitched underneath the dress across the underarm seam has an elastic inserted to regulate the fulness. Medium size requires 2⅛ yards 36-inch material.

First Model—Pictorial Review Dress No. 1739. Sizes, 16 to 20 years, and 34 to 44 inches bust. Price, 45 cents.

Second Model—Dress No. 1708. Sizes, 6 to 17 years. Price, 35 cents. Transfer 12820, blue or yellow, 25 cents.

A RED NOSE

One of the most hopeless of facial troubles is a red nose. Usually it is due to some digestive disorder and can best be cured by the following treatment:

First of all, take an enema, then for several days take tasteless oil as a laxative. Put yourself immediately on a diet, eliminating all heavy, rich, indigestible foods. It would be a good thing to stop eating meat, potatoes, cakes, cooked puddings, candy and iced drinks for a week or so, as these are all hard on the digestion.

Meanwhile make sure your clothing is loose, and that neither corsets nor shoes are tight enough to impede circulation. If the blood is congested an excellent treatment is to steam the nose. Also massage and tap it with the finger tips. This makes it more red for the time being, but it stirs the blood and will cure the congestion. Here is a well-recommended ointment for this trouble:

OINTMENT FOR RED NOSE

Powdered sulphur.....1 drachm
Powdered starch.....2½ ounces
Zinc oxide ointment....1½ ounces
Perfumed oil .....6 drops

This makes a fairly large sized jar. Use half the quantity unless a red nose is chronic.

There are some few cases where a red nose is not due to digestive troubles but to some stoppage in the small blood vessels supplying the nose. The blood congests and does not circulate freely. Tight nose pieces on eyeglasses are responsible for much disfigurement. The only thing to do in such a case is to steam the nose, then massage and tap it as directed, extending the treatment well over the forehead and the cheeks. Finish up whenever possible with an ice rub. This treatment dispels the congestion.

Hebe: I will be glad to mail you a formula for the lashes and brows if you send me a stamped addressed envelope. Massage the scalp every day until you feel the invigoration from it, as oiliness or even dryness often result from a sluggish condition, which is improved if not corrected entirely by a healthy circulation.

Mrs. O.: It would be well for you to send for the formula covering this subject of caring for the bust. In the meantime dash cold water over it several times each day, following this with slight friction from a coarse towel. As you have used these drying preparations it will take a little more time for the bust to recover.

W. H. L.: Either buttermilk or the juice from a piece of cucumber applied to the skin at night will help to remove the tanning from your daily outings.

Tomorrow—Blackheads.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. W.—Yes, the medicine you are taking without the supervision and care of a physician undoubtedly can cause the palpitation of the heart from which you are suffering.

No, the antitoxin injection did not cause your little boy's leg to be weak. His diphtheria might have, but not the antitoxin. If he hadn't had that, he might not be alive and had any physical legs, weak or otherwise. An unscientific physician here in New York recently let three children in one family and two in another die because he did not believe in antitoxin. He killed those children.

How about your little boy's diet? It he getting plenty of the growth foods and plenty of milk, green vegetables and fruit? Better see a children's specialist if he does not improve.

Mrs. H.—The thickness of your lips is probably an inherited characteristic. I don't believe you can change them. Plastic surgeons do wonderful things with features. Don't you like thick lips? I do. Of course, there is a limit.

Mrs. R.—You say you eat no potatoes but plenty of bran and whole wheat bread and meat, etc. You are troubled with a skin disorder. It sounds something like acne. We have an article on that subject which you may have. If you are constipated try granulated non-medicated agar for a change. And eat potatoes instead of bread. Potatoes have very valuable alkaline salts, especially potassium salts, which you may need. I suggest you add some milk to your diet and stop eating so much meat.

B.—While reducing it is highly important to get your full allowance of protein and other essential foods. You must not diet so strenuously that you do not do that. Send for the article on protein.

Mrs. N.—Of course your friend is right when he says a draft horse cannot be made out of a Kentucky trotter, but that does not imply that a Kentucky trotter should be skin and bones as you say you are. Certainly you should try to gain. It can be done. The pamphlet on gaining will be sent you if you follow the directions for sending for it. Read the following letter.

"Dear Doctor Peters:—

"I have gained ten pounds in the last two months and am tickled to death. I've been counting my calories and found that I was eating about half what I should and then wondering why I was so thin!—L. V."

Good work! And thank you for letting us know about it. Your experience will encourage others, like Mrs. N. above.

Tomorrow—Feeding the Child the First Year

My Dear Followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose 4 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 250 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember, it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the columns as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Catholics Open Fight On Oregon School Law

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23.—Catholic schools of Oregon yesterday opened a legal fight on the constitutionality of the compulsory public school attendance law passed by the voters of the state at the general election last November. Application for an injunction to halt the law was filed in the federal court. The suit is brought by the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, an educational corporation which maintains schools in four Oregon counties.

The complaint holds that the law is unconstitutional in that it amounts to an improper seizure of property, an unauthorized restriction of the rights of parents, children and teachers, and is a violation of the contract between the schools and the state created under the corporation law.

The defendants named are Governor Walter M. Pierce, Attorney General Van Winkle and District Attorney Stanley Myers.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

A NICHE AWAITING

Speaking of flivvers,—surely someone of the nine million or so owners did,—I have an answer to an oft asked question.

The question is this:

Why it is that when a car whizzes past you on the road, instead of being one of the big, powerful cars that you naturally expect to have pass you, it's generally a flivver?

The answer is this:

There are two reasons. No, three.

First, because there are so many flivvers on the road that there is that much more chance of a flivver passing you.

The second is that it always exasperates the owner of a larger car to have a flivver pass him and therefore he pays more attention to the passing of a flivver, and thinks it happens oftener than it does.

The Inferiority Complex

And the third is that flivver drivers drive fast because they have an inferiority complex.

I claim that last idea is purely my own discovery. I reckon the thing out this way. The man who has a big car that shows its power in every line can afford to go slow. Everyone knows he can go fast if he wants to. But the man who has a flivver has to prove that he can cover ground just as fast as anyone—which I think he comes pretty near being able to do.

The most moderate driver I know—never goes over twenty-five miles an hour—has the most expensive car in my acquaintance.

Always Cutting it Closer

The most inveterate record maker—"Yes sir, I cut my time down three minutes today, did the trip in an hour and thirty-one minutes," has a flivver.

Some time ago I suggested a niche in the hall of fame for the man who could buy a flivver and not give any elaborate explanation of the reason he had that instead of a more expensive car, but would say frankly he bought the car he could afford.

I have a new niche. It is for the man who will do this and in addition will do two more remarkable things.

He must drive the car just as he would drive any car and without trying to demonstrate that he could outrun a $6000 speedster.

And he must be the kind of man who will not forget, just as soon as he has bought a larger car, that he ever owned a flivver and resent being passed by flivvers more than by any other cars.

Do you ever think that niche will be filled.

SUNSHINE PELLETS

BY DR. W. F. THOMSON

If you're sneezin' this season,
A test on your skin
Will certainly tell you
What grasses are in.

A tight shoe at night is the doctor's delight.

Don't pet panthers or cancers—cage 'em when cubs.

When your tongue's coated and your breath comes in short pants, you should see a doctor, not a haberdasher.

When a lump begins to grow,
Even though the growth is slow,
May be cancer, don't you know?

Abe Martin remarks that few doctors will operate on a penniless tumor, and that reminds us that few preachers will accept a penniless coffer.

The Schick test will determine whether or not your child is susceptible to diphtheria. If he is, artificial immunization may save you a bad scare.

When a sickly old kidney
Causes pain in the back,
It isn't good treatment
To give it a whack.

Why send your boy to medical college for eight years, at an expense of $10,000, when there are so many short cuts to fame and wealth?

We are often told not to drink fluids with our meals, but no one has yet told us WHY we shouldn't. Fact is, it makes no difference whether we do or don't.

There is all the difference in the world between a mere bead chain and an "art necklace." The difference lies in the fact than an "art necklace" is made with an eye to color-harmony and unusualness of design. To make my point clear, I am going to describe two I have recently seen:

A Bronze Art Necklace: To make this, buy one dozen medium-size dull-finished wooden beads. Also buy three bunches of those bronze-colored, tiny china beads such as are sold at most five-and-ten cents stores for ten cents a bunch. The entire chain, if flat (before being joined in a circle) would measure exactly one yard. This chain had no dangle at the bottom.

Begin by threading three needles with a little over a yard of brown silk apiece (or dental floss may be used, which is stronger.) Run all three needles, one at a time, through a wood bead. Then string four inches of the small bronze beads on each of the three threads. Braid these three strings of beads together (they will shorten to three inches when braided). Now again run all three needles through a wood bead—and continue in this way completely around the chain, so that a three-inch braid of small bronze beads separates every wooden bead. Such a chain is effectively worn with a dress or blouse made of colored material of an all-over Egyptian or Paisley design. It has a dull, rich look which is particularly artistic.

A Brown-and-Amber Art Necklace: You will need almost three bunches of small dark-brown beads for this chain and 11 medium-sized glass amber beads (either cut or smooth). It is made very much like the chain just described, except that only two threaded needles are used, instead of three, and the chain is a little longer and has a dangle. Begin by running through a small brown chain bead, then run them through one of the amber beads; now string four inches of brown beads on both threads, and again run both needles through an amber bead (you see, in this chain the strands of small beads are not braided, or even twisted; they are simply allowed to run straight from one amber bead to another.)

The second amber bead forms the top of the dangle. For this second amber bead is the one through which the two needles will again be run after you have made the chain as long as you wish it, and, after that, all that will remain to be done, is to string four inches of brown beads on both threads and then run the needles through an amber bead, and through a small brown one. The entire chain is made like the dangle, two four-inch strands of small brown beads between each amber bead.

Tomorrow—Ices That Freeze Themselves.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Worthless German Money
Economics Divide People
One Form of Law Only
Hooray for Noble Thoughts

By Gil A. Cowan

GERMAN marks are worse than worthless! The finances of the republic will have to be changed quickly to avert sure catastrophe.

For a government whose money is worth nothing cannot pay its officers, much less discharge its debts. And its people must suffer.

Gamblers on the money exchanges of the world markets have greatly assisted in kicking Germany into its present condition. They are like the fighter who fouls, yet all is fair in love or war or—business.

Some people in Glendale would make out our public officials to be dishonest, ignorant and otherwise unworthy, if they could build for themselves the reputation of "I am it."

But the writer of this column doesn't aspire to be the prophet or the oracle or even the fountain of infallible wisdom, so he seldom tells the public how little others know, for, really, it might display ignorance.

And we hate to appear ignorant!

We are all children of fate, it would appear, from an intelligent discussion of the German situation which is reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor:

"When one is asked whether Germany has changed, says A. W. Vernon, in The Century Magazine, the reply is difficult. The institutions have changed, but it is difficult to say whether the German people have changed or not. They are scarcely a people any more save as the scorn of the world welds them together. They are thoroughly disunited. It is not that Bavaria is suspicious of Prussia or that Bremen and Hamburg are proud of independence. It is not geography, but economics, which divides the people.

"In the present government there are but few men of education and driving power; it represents, however, the heart of the German people striving to be free of unnatural ambitions. The heart of the German is essentially childlike. It is not immersed in the world; it has never led the world in culture, as France has, or as Italy or as England; it is essentially a democratic, unspoiled, energetic, comfort-loving, easy-going people over whom a veneer of imperialism and militarism has been spread. Now it is humiliated; it has lost its place in the family of nations. It knows that it was stupidly led to destruction; it believes that it was guilty of the blood of mankind, but not much more so than the surrounding nations, hostile to it and envious of it.

"Will it seek to revenge itself upon the nations which now hold it in the mire, or will it, forgetful of the past, press on toward the high mark of the calling which some men in the present government believe to be a holy calling? That is the question which now trembles in the balance. There is hope in the sturdiness of the people, in the essential simplicity of the nation that lives much on the public street and eats in the open air, in its sense of the futility and arrogance of a military aristocracy, in the deep convictions of a few leaders in the present movement that they are summoned to further democracy in the world."

The Pasadena Star-News expresses our idea in the matter of law and order, which is very timely in view of the mob actions in four states during the last week. The editorial says:

"There should be but one form of law—written, straightforward law, whose terms and processes are open and to be known of all men. There should be but one method of maintaining peace and order and dispensing justice between man and man—the constitutional, lawful way, traditionally established. Any betterments in processes should be made by all the people, proceeding in constitutional manner. There should be nothing hidden, nothing factional, nothing usurpational in these things. They should be open and above board, known of all people and consented to by all elements and by every lawful class and degree.

"The constitution and the laws made in accordance therewith, constitutional processes and established legal methods, all should be respected and should be upheld by all. There should be no special dispensation for any faction or clique to take law into its own hands and to invoke secret methods and violence."

Now for some deep stuff, folks. Someone on the San Francisco Journal staff swings a wicked pen in referring to noble thoughts. Here is the line he puts out without signing his name, either:

"Said Thoreau, 'They are never alone who are accompanied by noble thought.' Noble living apparently comes first, but noble thinking actually precedes it. Now and again one hears it said that it makes little difference what a person believes so long as he lives rightly. It is as though a man were to say, 'It makes no difference what I eat as long as I do not poison myself.' In other words, it makes all the difference between health and disease what one eats and drinks.

"By the same token, it makes all the difference between happiness and misery what one thinks. Zoroaster said, 'Taking the first footstep with a good thought, the second with a good word, and the third with a good deed, I entered Paradise.'

"The riches of the mind are the real riches of life. One may not always live with noble contemporaries. But in one's thought and reading one may always associate with the loftiest thinkers.

"Today we may not have the material wealth of Rome, Athens or Babylon. But we may share the intellectual wealth of these ancient empires. The nation's libraries are the truest strongboxes and contain the greatest tangible wealth on earth—knowledge.

"Like summer, right thinking may be had by the poorest comer. All that is asked is the price of desire and the effort to apply oneself. Right thinking is not something extravagant, reserved for the few. Right thinking is plain thinking. It is common sense. 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.'"

DRIVER OF DEATH AUTO GUARDED

Pretty Girl's Life Snuffed Out as Cars Collide In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—While detectives guarded R. H. Hobday, known in the theatrical world as Robert Carville, in the general hospital today as his injuries were treated, other authorities investigated the automobile crash last night which cost the life of pretty Fern Reeder, 19, who was riding with him.

According to witnesses, Hobday was driving his machine on the wrong side of the street when he crashed into another machine. In the collision Miss Reeder received fatal injuries, dying a short time later.

Miss Reeder is said to have come here recently from Milwaukee and her parents are now in Spokane, Wash.

Hobday, it was learned, gained prominence as the dancing partner of Barbara La Marr, screen actress.

EAGLE ROCK

NEW FIRE PLUGS TO BE INSTALLED

Improvement Follows Recent Inspection by Officer Of L. A. Department

A total of seventy-five new fire hydrants are to be installed within the limits of the Eagle Rock district, it is announced by Lieut. E. W. Welty of Engine No. 42.

The move comes as a result of a recent inspection of the local system, when Capt. W. H. Bryden of the Los Angeles department came out with F. C. McDowell, assistant chief, and made a personal tour of every hydrant in the community.

With the present mains, the limit of plugs that can be operated is seventy-five, Mr. Welty states, saying that when the proposed sixteen-inch mains are installed, and additional pumping facilities provided, another hundred hydrants will be installed, bringing the total to 175, which is considered by the department to be proper fire protection for this community.

Location of the seventy-five hydrants that will now be installed is determined by water supply, no hydrants being planned for the four-inch mains now on Stanley avenue, Valley drive and Oakwood trail.

The Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce has suggested that a slight reassignment, after further investigation, might be advisable.

BURBANK

TAX RATE TO BE KEPT AT $1.13

Trustees Figuring How It Can Be Done; S. P. Is Busy These Days

It is believed by City Clerk Webster that the tax rate for the present year can be kept to the 1922 figure of $1.13 per $100 of valuation, despite the fact that Burbank will have to pay interest and part of the principal on the recently voted $25,000 of sewer bonds.

The tax question is being given close attention by the board of trustees but no tax rate has yet been set. Should the increase in valuation take care of the added expenses of operating the city, no raise in the rate will be needed. Should this increase not be sufficient, however, the following schedule has been suggested:

One dollar for the general fund, which would produce $65,980; 3 cents for the city hall and fire funds, $1900; 4½ cents for the sewer bonds, $2875; and 10 cents for the park fund, $6598—a total tax rate of $1.17½.

Between last year's $1.13 and this proposed $1.17½, somewhere it is believed a compromise will be struck, which will take advantage of the increase of $6,598,700 in valuation, as estimated by County Assessor Hopkins, and which will levy on the community for the balance.

S. P. Depot Active

With a force of four clerks and another soon to be added, and with work under way in extending the present truck track to Magnolia avenue, it may be said that things are moving along rapidly in this end of town.

There has been a new agent in charge since August 2, G. W. Adams, of Los Angeles, who takes the place of W. R. Armstrong, resigned to go with the Associated Oil company. These clerks find their quarters in the depot very crowded and are looking forward eagerly to the day when the big new station will be built.

The Business and Professional Women's club enjoyed a treat at their last meeting, when Mrs. Bell of Los Angeles, a character reader told them just what various humps, bumps and lumps of the physiognomy indicated, and why, wherefore, et al.

D. R. Sepolex of Los Angeles discovered shortly after midnight recently, while "making an excessive and unusual noise with a horn" as the charge read, that it isn't always necessary to speed in order to land in the Burbank "Speeders' Court," now popular (or unpopular, perhaps!) throughout Southern California.

Mr. Sepolex said that the stentorian blasts were quite innocently intended—but it cost him $10 just the same, Judge Crawford deciding said sum is the proper tax on autos that snore at midnight.

race (which looks like a put-up job, although George vows he didn't fix the race!); Mrs. Daniel Kelty won first prize and Mrs. William Hunter second in the women's tire-rolling race; and Owen C. Emery won first and Rene Olin second in the men's tire-rolling race, with Ruie Downing third, out of three entrants.

That about concluded the program, after which a truck was called to take home the trophies. Following proudly behind this trophy wagon, while the bystanders let forth volleys of cheers, the motor cavalcade of Rotarians and Rotary Anns filed triumphantly back to Glendale.
